About ACBSP

The Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs is the leading specialized accreditation association for business education supporting, celebrating, and rewarding teaching excellence. The association embraces the virtues of teaching excellence and emphasizes to students that it is essential to learn how to learn.

The mission of ACBSP is to establish, promote, and recognize educational practices that contribute to the continuous improvement of business education and to accredit business schools and programs that adhere to these teaching and learning practices of excellence. ACBSP exists to provide mission-based accreditation and quality assurance services to four-year and community college business schools and programs throughout the U.S. and the world. ACBSP is the only business accrediting association for both two-year and four-year institutions.

Pratt Community College is a comprehensive community college, providing general education as well as technical education and business and industry training. Students can transfer to a 4-year university or enter the workforce upon graduation.

Pratt's main campus is 70 miles west of Wichita located in Pratt, Kan. It was founded in 1938. PCC has an eLearning Center located in Wichita and offers general services and online courses.

PCC Partnerships include: Pratt/Cowley Nursing Cooperative; Barton County Community College Partnership; Coffeyville Community College Partnership; Dodge City Community College Partnership; Fort Hays State University 2+2 Program.

Associate in Science
• Accounting
•Business Administration

This is a transfer program that enables a student to complete a degree and transfer to a four-year university to complete a Bachelor of Science Degree in Accounting, Business Administration, or other business related field. The Pratt Community College curriculum consists of a general education core with specific courses in business, accounting, economics and computers.

Accountants are employed in public accounting, industry, government, and nonprofit organizations. They measure, report, and process financial information necessary for decision making in these areas. The job opportunities are varied for a person with a degree in business administration and may include such areas as finance, management, marketing or sales.

Associate in Applied Science:
•Business Administration
•Administrative Assistant

These degrees are designed for the student who wants to attend college for two years to obtain job skills and then go to work. We help students find jobs while they are at PCC, and we help them find jobs upon graduation.

Students in the AAS degree are not required to take College Algebra, Speech, and some of the other general education courses.

These degrees are not intended for a student wishing to transfer to the four-year school, but some students do transfer by picking up the necessary general education courses after obtaining their degree. This allows the student to have job skills for a position while finishing their four-year degree.

There are also one-year certificate programs available in Business Administration and Administrative Assistant.
