Pratt Community College Ranks 18th in the Nation on the 2023 WalletHub List

Pratt Community College ranks 18th in the nation among two-year post-secondary institutions, according to the 2023 Best and Worst Community Colleges list compiled by WalletHub.com. WalletHub, an award-winning personal finance company with experts who help people save money, sampled 668 schools from member institutions in the American Association of Community Colleges.

Primary factors used by WalletHub include financing, cost, education, and career outcomes. These units are key for prospective students when considering what college to attend—based on the metrics applied, Pratt Community College excelled in all areas, reflecting the institution's mission, vision, and institutional aims.

"These categories (WalletHub) certainly fit our institutional aims well and reflect the hard work that all of you have done to support these aims. Thank you for all your work in recruiting, retaining, instructing, training, and assisting our students toward their ultimate goals," stated Dr. Michael Calvert, Pratt Community College president, to the campus community.

WHAT'S NEW AT PCC

The Office of Enrollment Management ordered new blue furniture for the common area of the Benson Education Center. We hope the community and students enjoy the new look.

The new PCC Foundation conference room is located next to the Mailroom in the Benson Education Center.

Currently, the space includes blueprints and layouts from Pratt Community College as well as upcoming goals, former, and current projects funded by the foundation.

Some of the projects include the current Track and Soccer facilities, renovating Huffman Arena for Rodeo, and Stanion Field for baseball.

Also, a donor marquee screen is available as well. Stop by and you will be able to see where Pratt Community College began and where we are presently.

2023 Outstanding Alumni Award

Pratt Community College Foundation is pleased to announce that Dwane DeWeese is the recipient of the 2023 Outstanding Alumni Award. Dwane has been an invaluable pillar of support and service in the Pratt area, leaving an indelible mark on the lives of its residents.

Dwane earned an Associate's Degree in Vocational Education from PCC in 1961. He then attended Emporia State University, completing his Bachelor's Degree 1963. Subsequently, in 1969, he obtained his Master's Degree, also from Emporia State University.

Dwane served Pratt Community College for over 30 years as an automotive technology and diesel mechanic instructor. His passion for teaching and sharing his knowledge with the next generation of technicians has been the key to success of students in their career paths. Another of Dwane's significant contributions was his 20 plus years as a member of the Pratt Community College Board of Trustees. Serving in this capacity, he has been instrumental in guiding the college towards excellence, implementing strategic initiatives, and ensuring that the institution meets the evolving needs of its students and the community at large. His dedication to promoting accessible and quality education has had a profound impact on numerous aspiring individuals seeking to advance their careers through PCC's programs. Additionally, Dwane and his wife Sue have been generous financial supporters of PCC's Annual Scholarship Auction. Dwane has been an active leader in the foundation's Build Our Future comprehensive fundraising campaign.

MINDFULNESS MINUTE

Student Success Center

#MentalHealthMatters

The Student Success Center is located in Dennis Lesh Sports Arena, upstairs, and in office 55. The office is open regular business hours: Monday through Thursday 8am-5pm and Fridays 8am-12pm. In the Student Success Center students have a variety of services available to them. Some of the services include online tutoring, success coaching, counseling referrals, academic advising, testing lab access, case management, follow-up services from academic alerts, test readers, and other academic accommodations. I had the opportunity to speak with Director Diego Esparza and have a Q & a session.

Q: What is the goal of this department?

A: "To help students develop themselves and equip students to handle any obstacles they may face."

Q; What is the importance of connection and community? (Recognizing that this department serves as a bridge between students, faculty, and staff.)

A: The student success center is "A place of belonging for students, a Space where they can be their authentic selves, and A place where they can be vulnerable."

Q: Anything else you would like readers to know?

A: "Feel free to stop by with any questions, concerns, or students can stop by if they need someone to talk to." "Students can stop by and talk through whatever might be on their mind and learn more about services available to them."
